

Sociology of Education: Past, Present and Future

Monday 16 August 2010, 10am-4pm
Monash University, Japanese Studies Centre, Building 54,
Clayton Campus, Wellington Rd

Future directions for the sociology of education require an understanding of previous contributions, current constraints as well as new approaches able to grasp the relationship between education and new social and global conditions

Professor Michael Young,
Institute of Education,
University of London
Sociology of education as 'powerful knowledge': the radical case for a disciplinary tradition

Professor Raewyn Connell,
University of Sydney
'Th'expeance of spirit in a waste of shame . . .' Can the sociology of education live in a neoliberal world

This symposium aims to provide a critical overview of the field with a view to providing networking opportunities and building research capacity

- • •
- Keynote speakers
- Roundtable discussions
- Capacity building
- Professional networking
- • •

Registration
(inc. refreshments and lunch)
$50 TASA members
$100 non-TASA

Payable to:
lucie.joschko@education.monash.edu.au

Postgraduate members may apply for travel and registration scholarships

For further information please contact Terri Seddon:
Terri.Seddon@Education.monash.edu.au or Julie Matthews: jmatthew@usc.edu.au